Daechang Construction's know-how provides trust and confidence to many clients.

Unit cost - Competitive construction cost

Calculation of construction cost estimates through a double check system of rough estimate through analysis of architectural drawings + performance unit price base.

Finance - Minimize contingent liabilities

Maintain a stable financial flow by avoiding bill payments to subcontractors and minimizing contingent liabilities through cash payments.

Technique - Active VE activities

Possesses technology that can provide a win-win situation for both the ordering party and the construction company, including cost reduction and construction period reduction through various construction VEs at the architectural review stage, before construction commencement, and at each construction stage.

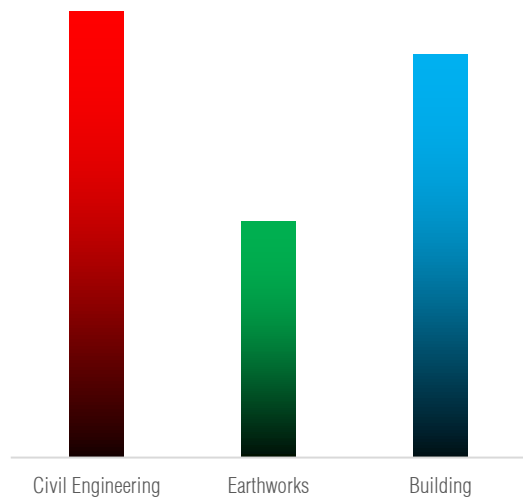

Man power - Professional ability of all executives and employees

Continuing to recruit industry experts and experts in various fields such as development, finance, and construction
